IT'S BOOK WEEK

It's that time of year again when we at All Saints like to celebrate the wonderful world of books and reading.

Remember last year when you stuck me to a wall? This year your class can win the chance to soak me in the stocks!

On Monday 24th your child will come home with a sheet to note down any reading they do across the week. This could be their school book, library books, their own books or other reading material. On Friday teachers will count up how many times during the week each child has read and make a total number of reads for their class. The class who has read the most through the week will be the winners and will get the chance to throw water at me while I'm in the stocks.

On Tuesday 25th we have an African storyteller called 'H' Pattern coming into school to hold storytelling workshops for the whole school. Thank you so much to the PTA for funding this.

On Tuesday and Thursday there will be a book fair open in the hall where you will be able to purchase books from Scholastic books. Any purchases you make will earn us commission to spend on new books for the school.

Friday 28th is our dress up day. Your child is welcome to come to school dressed as any book character for the day if they wish to do so.
